Childers-Wright Nuptials Held in Bethany

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Henry Childers

A rose covered arbor formed the background for the wedding of Doreen Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Wright of Prescott, Ariz., and Michael Henry Childers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Childers, 170 San Gabriel Ct. More than 350 relatives and friends gathered at Beth-

FOLLOWING a honeymoon at the Mission Inn at Riverside and Arrowhead Lake, the couple will make their home in LaMirada where they will resume their studies at Biola College in the fall.

The bride recently visited Prescott where she was honored at a bridal shower by 45 friends in the home of Mrs. Myers. The week before the wedding Mrs. Richard Plum was hostess at a surprise shower in her Garden Grove home.

The bride was also guest of honor at a party given by Miss Ward with class-mates in attendance.

The week before the wedding, the bridegroom entertained his attendants at a bachelor dinner which included a barbequed steak dinner and an evening of

Democrat or Republican, you are just going to have to admit that this week has made interesting newspaper print. However, I rather resent the convention taking up all the repeat program time on the TV. Why, I was going for a record on some of those shows. I know I've seen them at least six times

Well Done, Mountain Men

Well deserved, indeed, is the signal honor conferred on the Sierra Madre Search and Rescue Team through the scroll presented this splendidly heroic organization by the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors.

That this aggregation of hardy-bodied and stout-minded men have, in recent years, rescued more than 300 persons of the world have come here in the Sierra Madre Mountains, some of it almost impossible, speaks for itself.

What we perhaps do not fully realize is that Lieutenant Fred La Lone and his intrepid and dauntless mountaineers have often risked their own lives for others and given of their time and money in the difficult task of rescuing persons from the hazardous positions in which they suddenly find themselves in our rugged terrain.

We know that all Sierra Madre and Hastings Ranch residents will join us in saying "Well done" to our Moun-

Only a Facade of Unity

The facade of unity professed by the Democratic leaders assembled in Los Angeles for their national convention shouldn't fool anyone.

The fact remains that both the Northern Democrats (the big town boys) and the Southern Democrats (the country lads) went into the presidential pow-wow with their knives sharpened and they have not been sheathed.

The Southerners do not forget easily-politically-and it would not be surprising if the Republicans, with proper effort, should carry both Florida and Texas, come next November. The feud between the Northerners seeking the big Negro vote in the large cities-New York, Chicago and Los Angeles-and the Southerners fighting desegregation with might and main, remains unhealed, despite all professions of amity at the convention.

HARRY TRUMAN builded better than he knew or wished-for the Republicans-when he loosed his speech contending the Kennedy forces had rigged the convention. Harry sure riled the Democratic "animules" for fair.

Further, there are other Democratic cleavages of no small proportions. For instance, the inner-party fight in New York state between the Lehman-Roosevelt Liberal bloc and the Tammany forces led by Carmine G. Desapio. Some Ohio Democrats are looking distrustfully at their

Governor Michael V. DiSalle because of the report he sought to make a deal that, in turn for his swinging the Buckeye delegation to Kennedy, he would be rewarded with the secretary of commerce portfolio. certain California Demo-

For that matter, there crats who turned a distrustful eye on Governor Edmund G. Brown's constant flirting with the Kennedy forces and because of the report that he coveted the U.S. attorney generalship in return for putting a block of California delegates on the line for Kennedy.

THE REVOLT of the young and coming leaders of the Democratic Party against their elder politicos is in keeping with the trend of the times—the "angry young men era"the upsurge of youth tired of the unfulfilled promises and futile efforts of the older generation. In the case of the Democratic young bloc the sad circumstance is that they have no clear vision as to where they are going, like the California Young Democrats who have clearly mistaken Pinkism and "The Party Line" for true Liberalism.

Fortunately, the Young Republicans have a leader in Richard M. Nixon who points for them the way of true Liberalism, of change within the framework of the Constitution and embodied in the precepts set down by the Founding Fathers; remember that they, too, were "angry young men" seeking and obtaining freedom for our land.

NIXON REPRESENTS the best elements of the young men and young women of the Republican Party as well as the progressive ideas of the elder element. Harmony songs of the Democrats, sounding so sweet in the rarefied air of the Los Angeles Sports Arena, will rapidly turn sour as the weeks ensue and the Republicans, by dint of hard work, especially precinct organization, can elect the next President if they will not let down-for a

Now is the time to begin this herculean effort. It can single moment. be done, for the time and portents are favorable.

Our Troupe of Players

The auditorium at Sierra Madre School seats 500 persons, every seat of which should be filled next Friday and Saturday nights, July 22-23, and in the week following, July 29-30, when the curtain is rung up on the Sierra Madre Repertoire Theater's initial production of "One Mad Night."

The production can mark an augmentation, substantially and inspirationally, to the cultural attainments of Sierra Madre which in themselves are not of a limited number. There are many facets of cultural growth in our city, but this theater group, containing both Sierra Madre and outside personnel, can add materially to this culture.

There are lighter and darker shades to any continuous theater endeavor as is evinced by the famed Pasadena Playhouse and its years of almost continuous production, but farce, comedy, comedy drama, drama and tragedy contribute to the protean face of humanity, and it is good at times to see ourselves reflected histronically.

It is well, too, to be able at times to laugh at ourselves and to have our desires and our thoughts and our aims "reincarnated" in the attitudes and portrayals of the players, for Shakespeare's "All the world's a stage" is far more a truism than most of us imagine.

So let the curtain rise and let's crowd the Sierra Madre School Auditorium for all four of the initial performances a pat on the back for the deserving players and an augury of our Troupe of Players. It will mean good entertainment, for the excellence and extensiveness of future product

The guest spoke so exceptionally well that the next day I wrote an enthusiastic paragraph in my daily col-umn in the Los Angeles Times—and I believe that was the first laudatory publicity Chet Huntley received. In the following year Chet's abilities were widely recognized in the Los Angeles area and now it is not too much to say they are recognized internationally. ### Gifted Child Curriculum Change Seen

"Can we say, THIS MUCH knowledge and NO MORE belongs to a specific grade?" was the thoughtful question posed by Mrs. Jeanne Delp, curriculum consultant, Whittier City School District, Whittier, at the Symposium Whittier, at the Symposium on the Gifted Child, held at the Statler Hotel, Golden State Room, on Wednesday

A three-year study of the gifted child, sponsored by foot came in contact with a the State of California De chair in her home with the partment of Education, was resultant dislocation. conducted by seven educa-tors, under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Martinson, professor of education, Long Beach State College, Long Beach, and involved 187 teachers and 929 students rated as gifted and high achievers. The IQ of the pupils was between 130 and 194. They represented about 2 per cent of the school population.

The school districts chosen for these tests were representative of the large metropolitan area, small town, rural isolated, rural subur-

Children were chosen by means of formal testing as well as by teacher and parent interviews.

RESULTS of the study suggest many revisions and extensions of the curriculum. They suggest that learning riences should be proexperiences should be vided which are not only accumulation of facts but which will develop cause-and-effect relationships, sensitiv-ity to what questions are answerable, and develop the research type of mind. The gifted child must be identified early in his school career, and must be given the opportunity to communicate ideas. To this end teaching of creative writing must-be introduced early in the child's career.

"WE HAVE made progress in recognizing a child's emotional needs," remarked Dr. Leon Lessinger, chief research consultant of the study, and associate professor of the San Fernando Valley State College. "As we go up the hierarchy of needs we see the cognitive needs, the need for knowledge which is videnced by a love for chool, by intellectual curiosity, by reading for enjoyment, by getting excited about a calculus problem. If we can understand this cognitive need we will improve our curriculum."

The study and the results will be published by the State of California, Department of Education, in Sacramento, and will be available about January, 1961.
